SEEN

FADE IN:

TITLE CARD - BLACK

The word SEEN appears against black.

INT. LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

A YOUNG WOMAN sits on the carpet in front of a low coffee table. A laptop is open in front of her. She edits a video, watching the timeline, typing and clicking through her work.

She peers over the screen. Her fingers return to the keyboard. In a notebook, she writes and sketches ideas, trying to work out what comes next.

Her focus begins to slip. She rests her forehead in one hand, stares at the unfinished video and pulls a stuffed toy towards her. She is tired, but she keeps going.

SAME ROOM - TIME PASSES

A series of JUMP CUTS interrupts the otherwise fixed wide view. The woman appears in different positions: at the laptop, on the sofa with her phone, and elsewhere in the room. She drifts away from the task, then returns.

A pendulum clock TICKS steadily across the changing images.

Back at the laptop, she makes her last adjustments. The edit is finished. She looks at the result, and her expression softens into relief.

She opens an online video-upload interface, enters the title SEEN and saves her work. She looks satisfied, but exhausted.

INT. LIVING ROOM - LATER

On the dark sofa, she lies back with the stuffed toy resting against her. She scrolls through her phone, yawns and grows still. The phone lowers. Her eyes close.

DREAM - DIGITAL SPACE / LIVING ROOM

A video page appears in the darkness. Its view count starts small, then begins to climb. The numbers flicker, jump and multiply at an impossible speed.

The woman looks towards the screen, stunned. Positive comments begin to appear around her, suspended in the room instead of remaining inside the video interface.

She reacts with disbelief, then excitement. She smiles and moves more wildly as the comments accumulate. Her image GHOSTS and BLURS, edges GLOW and the frame TREMBLES. The familiar space begins to feel unreal.

Digital ticks, glitches and notification sounds build into a frantic rush. A rising sound breaks into an IMPACT.

INT. LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

She wakes suddenly on the sofa, holding the stuffed toy. The dream is gone. Its dense sounds fade into the quiet room.

She stays where she is. We never see the real view count or learn what happens to her uploaded video.

CUT TO BLACK.

Every work of art waits for another pair of eyes.

FADE OUT.